

Donors Fuel Federalist Society Expansion

In a year marked by debate over major constitutional questions, the Society has continued to expand programs for students, faculty, and members of the legal community. This growth was possible only because of the unwavering support of the donors to the James Madison Club. These donors contribute $1,000 or more annually to the Society. In recognition of the commitment of those individuals, foundations, and corporations, a list of the current members of the James Madison Club appears below.
